Elie Wiesel To Speak In Delaware

Nobel laureate Elie Wiesel will speak in Delaware on Sunday, Sept. 20, 7 p.m. at the Grand Opera House.

Stephen E. Herrmann, president of the Jewish Federation, announced the lecture is being sponsored by a grant of the Ann B. and H. Albert Young Memorial Fund. Herrmann stated that Wiesel is most appropriate person to be brought to Delaware as Ann B. and H. Albert Young also demonstrated their devotion to the highest ideals and principles of social justice and humanitarian concern in the entire community.

Elie Wiesel is many things: a brilliant writer and teacher, a Jew who is universal, a conscience, an interpreter of legends, a lecturer who recreates the past, reminding listeners of both old and new conflicts.

Wiesel, recent recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize, had been the chairman of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, a position he held since 1980. A professor, scholar, author, lecturer and journalist, he has involved himself with numerous causes on behalf of Israel and worldwide civil rights for Jews. He is perhaps most widely recognized as a concentration camp survivor who has chronicled the Holocaust.

Born in 1928 in Sighet, an Hungarian-speaking enclave under Rumanian rule, he and his family were deported with nearly half of the town's Jewish population in 1944. His father died in Buchenwald. His mother, a younger sister and other family members were killed in other camps. He later learned that two older sisters had survived. An autobiographical account of his time at Birkenau, Auschwitz and Buchenwald is detailed in his book, Night.

Elie Wiesel

Educated at the Sorbonne, the University of Paris, Wiesel has been a journalist for Israeli, French and American newspapers and is currently a naturalized U.S. citizen living in New York City. He teaches at Boston University, and serves on a number of committees dealing with the state of the world Jewry and education, including serving on the board of directors of the International Rescue Committee, the board of trustees of the American Jewish World Service and the advisory board of the World Union of Jewish Students, where he is the chairman.

Arrangements for Elie Wiesel have been through the B'nai B'rith International Lecture Bureau.

Panitz Represents USA In International Bible Contest

Beth Panitz, a student at Gratz Hebrew High School and graduate of Adas Kodesch Shel Emeth Torah, won first prize at the National Bible Contest held in New York City on May 24, 1987. She has won a trip to Israel to compete with winners of other countries in the annual International Bible Contest to be held on Israel Independence Day in Jerusalem, April 22, 1988.

The contest is sponsored by the Department of Education and Culture of the World Zionist Organization with Hebrew and English divisions which are grouped by ages 11-13 and 14-17. The aims and goals of the contest are to promote greater interest in the Bible among students of Jewish schools, to encourage more extensive reading of the Bible, and to foster love of the Bible. Beth won first place in the Wilmington district qualifying competition held on May 3, 1987, at Adas Kodesch Shel Emeth Synagogue. Mrs. Helen Gordon administers the Wilmington district contest.

Beth is the daughter of Bernard and Sylvia Panitz. She is completing her junior year at Concord High School where she is a member of the National Honor Society, one of the year book editors, and a writer for the school newspaper. A participant in the Science Olympiad, member of the math and track teams, she will represent Concord High

Yetta and Frank Chaiken Honored

Yetta and Frank Chaiken

Three Wilmington synagogues have joined together to honor Jewish community leader Yetta and Frank Chaiken at a State of Israel Bonds tribute dinner, 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, June 23, at Adas Kodesch Shel Emeth, Washington Blvd. and Torah Drive.

The Chaikens are longtime members of the three congregations, Adas Kodesch, Beth Emeth and Beth Shalom. Speaker at the event will be the Hon. Asher Naim, minister of information at the Embassy of Israel, Washington, D.C. who once served as Israel's consul General in the mid-Atlantic region.

Chairing the tribute are Shirley Fisher-Drowos, Charles and Naomi Klein, Frederic and Ceceil Ehrich and Martin Zukoff. Serving on the tribute committee, which includes more than 100 civic, business and synagogue leader are Rabbi Leonard B. Gerwitz of Adas Kodesch; Rabbi Peter H. Grumbacher of Beth Emeth congregation and Rabbi Kenneth S. Cohen, Beth Shalom congregation.

The Chaikens are native Wilmingtonians Yetta is a graduate of the University of Delaware who taught history in the Wilmington and Mt. Pleasant school districts before retiring.

Frank, who graduated the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School in 1941, entered the U.S.

Dear Editor,

While the entire Jewish community can take pride in the foresight and planning for the exciting Family Campus expansion of the Jewish Community Center on Garden of Eden Road, yet there is one other possible inclusion which seems not to have surfaced, at least in any public discussion of which I'm aware. That is an opportunity to provide Delaware with an essential aspect of our Jewish communal life that was displaced in the move to suburbia, two decades ago. I refer to the building and support of a Mikvah serving our entire population, where it located at the expanded Jewish Community Center.

In some communities, as in Wilmington in the past, community Jewish education opportunities have directed themselves to such a location, as common but neutral ground among denominations. That has not always worked out, as the common ground must include the inculcation and preservation of traditional teachings. As always it would remain up to the individual to determine the extent of personal conformance to that practice. That has always been the understanding of Jewish communal agencies such as the JCC, or the chaplaincy mission to the Armed Forces for instance. Ability to respect that standard has not been easy. What exists today as Albert Einstein Academy operates in the shadow of former conflict in Wilmington in one such area.

A centralized Mikvah in the JCC has an excellent precedent in Chicago, Illinois, whose new JCC emerged in Northwest Chicago, during the mid-1970's. There the former site on Pulaski Avenue became untenable due to distance from a long-relocated community, and was plagued by safety problems requiring an embarrassing need for monitoring by the Chicago Police Department. The centralized location provided respectful transportation arrangements to that hub of Jewish activities such that escorts could be appropriately engaged in other pursuits without question or focus on personal matters that should not be subject to public attention.

Location of the Mikvah in the JCC also would encourage more utilization of its purpose, as no longer would there be the need to travel to New Jersey or Pennsylvania. Use of the Mikvah has applicability to ALL segments of the community, too. Adherents of Reform Judaism seeking to support their ability to adhere to halachic methods could certainly direct new converts to a proper facility without compromising their own understandings. Members of Conservative congregations could bring their dishes to tevilatkelim observances. Getting married and having children is not a preserve of one single segment of our society, either. It would thus appear that the more Orthodox followers are hardly the only beneficiaries of such a facility here, and that presence sends a positive signal to other Jewish individuals considering moving to the greater Wilmington area.

I expect the very raising of this subject will provoke some healthy discussion, as there certainly does not appear a great amount of information disseminated in recent popular materials. Recent is a relative term, as the last general references one might expect to have found covering the topic in both Reform and Conservative communities (Gittlesohn, "Consecrated Unto Me," 1965; Borowitz, "Choosing a Sex Ethic," 1969; Gordis, "Sex and the Family in the Jewish Tradition," 1967) are twenty years old and say absolutely

LETTERS to the Editor

NOTHING on the subject. Cf. The Jewish Catalog, 1973, pg. 167-171.

Popular Orthodox resources, also frequently dating from the 1960's in terms of publication, at least are abundant and do give thorough analysis both philosophically and in literal understanding.

I raise the matter not for intentional controversy, but from regret that this opportunity seems to have gone by the board.

Opinions I express are strictly those of my own, and are not necessarily those of my congregation or others in my family.

Sincerely,
Jack E. Shattuck

Dear Sir:

As we begin the 200th anniversary of the Constitution of the United States it is important to realize how important that document is to us, and especially to us Jews. As every school kid knows, or should know, most of the original 13 colonies, were founded in a search for religious freedom, but only one of the colonies had any semblance of a religious freedom. The state that had religious freedom to a degree, was Pennsylvania, and perhaps that is why Philadelphia was the scene of the Constitutional Convention.

On July 4, 1788 the citizens of Philadelphia dedicated their annual Independence Day celebrations to that "small miracle" — to use George Washington's felicitous phrase — which had been realized less than 10 months earlier, when the U.S. Constitution first saw the light of day.

As a measure of their gratitude over the successful accomplishments of an unprecedented task, Philadelphians honored the 55 men who had anguished during the hot and humid summer of 1787 to hammer out the Constitution by holding a magnificent parade where the procession was headed by all the city's Christian clergy "arm in arm" as an eyewitness has recounted the event — "with the Jewish rabbi."

We as Jews and Americans must strive to prevent tampering with the "First Amendment." Congress shall make no law respecting establishment of religion, or the free exercise thereof. This was so different than England where the King had to be a member of the "Church of England" (Episcopalian). In Spain the ruler had to be "Roman Catholic," and "Holland," where the ruler had to be a member of "The Dutch Reformed Church." Think of it — this was revolutionary in 1787 and the United States is still the only country in this world that has this wonderful safeguard. Don't let any one tamper with the "First Amendment."

Article VI (3) of the Constitution of the United States says, The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the Members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial Officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation, to support the Constitution; but no religious Test shall ever be required as a Qualification to any Office or public Trust under the United States. Think of it — Jews for the first time, in a Christian country were treated as citizens and equals without renouncing their heritage.

Benjamin Disraeli first had to renounce Judaism in order to be a member of Parliament and then Prime Minister of England. Baron Rothchild was prevented from becoming a member of Parliament because he refused to take the oath as a member, on the King James Version of the Bible. The law was eventually changed and Rothchild became the first Jewish member of Parliament. We as Jews should celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the masterpiece, worked out in Philadelphia, more than any other people. It was our Emancipation Proclamation. Philadelphia, more than any other people. It was our Emancipation Proclamation.

Sincerely yours,
Samuel Kagel

Dear Editor:

Professor Dershowitz's article, "THE POLLARDS AND THE ROSENBERGS," (April 17 issue) was good and timely with regard to the Pollards for whom he showed understanding and compassion. With regard to the Rosenbergs, it might have been adequate 15 years ago, before FBI and Justice Department files released under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) lawsuit of the Rosenbergs' sons exposed serious corruption in the case against the Rosenbergs.

Originally, it was possible for the not-too-well-informed to believe what the brilliant civil libertarian law professor now writes, that the main evil in the Rosenberg case was, possibly, their "being convicted by questionable means and (certainly) punished excessively for a crime they probably did commit." Dershowitz does add, to prove unfairness of death sentences for those convicted of aiding wartime allies, not enemies:

"At the time of the Rosenberg's trial, it was loudly proclaimed by the Government that they had given our Soviet enemies the secret of the atom bomb. It now turns out that whatever secret there was had long before been turned over by others, and in far greater detail."

But the FBI files reveal much more! They show perjury on the part of the government's main witness, who (supported by his wife, alone) gave the "atom bomb" testimony on which the convictions depended. Oral testimony, uncorroborated and undocumented! Purchased with promises of leniency for this main witness, a confessed spy, and freedom for his wife who also confessed! The files show prosecution subornation of perjury. It shows the role of the supposedly impartial judge as virtually a member of the prosecution team. Even before these FOIA files were released, the Appeals Court had already noted "wholly reprehensible" prosecution conduct.

Dershowitz, commendably, is properly sensitive to Jewish concerns. Why does he overlook the false and wild rhetoric in Judge Kaufman's sentencing statement, arming the Anti-Semites more powerfully than their customary "blood libel"? Kaufman blamed the Jewish couple for the worst crime in American history, causing the war in Korea, "untold

ON THE OTHER HAND N. Even-Or

Three Cheers - No More Galut

Shoshana S. Cardin, President of the Council of Jewish Federations, was the featured speaker at the Jewish Federation of Delaware Annual Meeting on June 14. She is a talented and dedicated leader, as well as an articulate speaker, but I found some of what she said disturbing, and, even more so, some of what she didn't say.

In Mrs. Cardin's view, because of the state of well-being in which we American Jews live, it no longer makes sense to think of ourselves as living in galut, exile, in the dispersion. I suppose if one defines galut totally in material terms, that is so. The majority of American Jews live in material comfort, many in affluence. We enjoy total political freedom in this great land of ours and almost limitless opportunity to do and be what we want. I guess under this definition one could even push the argument further and say that the Jews of Israel are in galut and we are in the promised land of milk and honey: after all, aren't more of them coming here than of us going there?

The only problem with this point of view is that it takes a high degree of historical, philosophical and theological chutzpah to espouse it. The basic covenant that binds God to Israel, the Jewish people, and the people to God is tied to a specific piece of land, Eretz Yisroel, the land of Israel. No matter how great our joy in the United States, America is not yet Zion, nor Washington, D.C. the City of David. Nor does Torah go forth from Delaware and the word of God from Wilmington. Our religious roots, our cultural roots, our peoplehood roots, are in Israel, as they always have been. And this is true whether we know it or not, whether we like it or not. We ignore it, turn our backs on it, at our peril.

Moreover, before Mrs. Cardin declares galut dead, she should look at some of the facts pointed out by Tsvi Bisk in the May Hadassah Magazine: Israel is the only growing Jewish community in the world, despite all the talk of yordim, emigration. The American Jewish community, in contrast, is shrinking, even with Russian Jewish and Israeli immigration to this country. Half of the Jewish children now coming into the world are born in Israel. Within 20 years, projects Mr. Bisk, there may be more Muslim Americans than Jewish Americans. In fact, within the same period, there may be more Arab Americans (Christian and Muslim) than Jewish Americans. There's a great deal there for all of us to think about.

Tsvi Bisk also, by the way, puts a new perspective on the contributions we American Jews send to Israel: he claims that, as a percentage of Israel's Gross National Product, money coming from us will continue to decline rapidly. At present, he says, less than 2% of Israel's GNP comes from contributions by the entire diaspora put together!

Galut has, of course, never been a question of material well being, or even one of political freedom. The Jews of 15th century Spain were, in many instances, fabulously wealthy and advisers to the rulers; that made them no less in galut, and no less subject to ultimate burning and expulsion. The Jews of modern Germany, many of whom considered themselves Germans, not Jews, died in the ovens of a galut they did not recognize. Galut is the separation of the Jewish people, no matter what their circumstances, from their spiritual and cultural home. We may, each of us, choose to live in galut, but we are not free to redefine it.

Which brings me to what Shoshana Cardin did not say. She spoke with skill and confidence about the Jewish people of America and Israel, about our challenges, our problems, our opportunities. She even used the word covenant, but she never once mentioned God. Why not? Someone, to my horror, suggested that this might be because she didn't want to take sides in disputes between Reform and Orthodox, Reconstructionist and Conservative, Jews. I choose not to believe that. We dispute about conversion and patrilineal descent — let it not be about God!

Perhaps the ultimate galut, the depths of exile, are when one no longer realizes that he is in galut; when one has so estranged himself from God and faith, so secularized and assimilated his sense of Jewishness, that Zion and galut blend together for him, and there is no longer any sense of difference. Is this to be the fate of the majority of the American Jewish community?

THE RABBI WRITES

Ira J. Schiffer
Temple Beth El

Rabbi Schiffer Says Shalom

It is hard to believe that I came to Newark ten years ago. I was a student at the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College commuting to Temple Beth El on weekends. People would call me rabbi and I would correct them that I was a student rabbi. I learned quickly, that as people didn't want to hear that their doctor was a student-doctor, people expected me to be their "graduate" rabbi.

Neither the congregation nor I were quite sure what that meant. But we grew together, learning from our mistakes and our successes.

Some wanted their rabbi to be a classic father figure, the benevolent dictator regarding things Jewish; others saw the rabbi as one who invoked rites of passage and words of prayer. What I saw, was a young and growing community strongly committed to its Jewish identity, wanting to take its place as a legitimate community within a larger community; looking for help, support and guidance in building itself. As a Reconstructionist student rabbi, it was a challenge I found very appealing.

The community's physical growth this past decade is apparent. We can look at our new synagogue building, now three years old, or at our membership list, more than twice as long as when I started. But it has been Newark's growth as a Jewish community which is ultimately of more concern.

Beth El's religious school has grown into a respected school of Judaism for our youth. Our adult education programs have expanded over the years to include annual courses in Hebrew language, adult b'nai mitzvah and confirmation, study weekends, and a Friday Night Forum Series.

One distinguishing characteristic of Reconstructionist congregations is the degree of democratic process its leadership tries to develop. The boards under whom I have served have maintained and cultivated a high degree of community involvement.

Congregants and congregations need to continuously work to become more Jewishly involved and communally involved. While Newark's relationship with the larger Delaware Jewish community is not all it could be, community funds now help support our outreach and programming for the greater Newark Jewish community. Federation, especially under Bob Kerbel's leadership, has begun to recognize the wealth of talent and energy in Newark. Jewish Family Service has helped us in our outreach work. It is my hope that the constituent agencies of Federation will in the future be better able, and in some cases more willing, to deal with Jewish concerns outside of Wilmington.

It has been a pleasure to serve with my colleagues in the Rabbinical Association of Delaware. For Delaware's rabbinate, love of the Jewish people transcends denominational differences. It has been in the spirit of Clal Yisrael that we have fostered and supported community worship services and programming.

I have enjoyed my years in Delaware and hope that I have been able to give as much as I have received.

With every good wish for your continued success and growth.

Lehitraot.

(Rabbi Ira Schiffer will be serving Beth Am Synagogue in Baltimore, Md.)

A Time To Read

Maybe there used to be fewer issues at stake, or maybe the "right" position to take on each was more obvious. Whatever the reason, American Jews seem to be bombarded today with too many complex questions and to be pulled in too many directions on each of them.

Do we favor an international peace conference in the Middle East as pushed by Peres, or do we hold out for direct negotiations as insisted by Shamir? Is it militant and intransigent Orthodoxy that is tearing apart our people, or is it the patrilineal descent and nonhalachic conversion of the Reform movement? Should allocations for expenditure of UJA funds be determined by the Jewish Agency in Israel or by American contributors? Is a Republican or Democrat in the White House better for Israel and the American Jewish community? Is there really a Jewish drug problem, an alcohol problem, a child abuse problem, and what do we do about them?

There are no easy answers, but there is today a tremendous amount of information available to help us formulate our own opinions, our own plans for action. In addition to the local News-Journal, the New York Times, the Philadelphia Inquirer, there are the Near East Report, Commentary, Moment, Tiakkun, Sh'ma, and a host of other Jewish publications. And there is our own Jewish Voice. We all must read and read and read some more. It is the only way that we can intelligently be part of the great decisions that are being formed each day. It's our responsibility and our opportunity.

Class Of 1987 Honored

Delaware Gratz Hebrew High School is proud to announce that eight students have successfully completed the requirements for graduation.

On Sunday, May 31, these young men and women joined Gratz College in Philadelphia for formal graduation ceremonies and conferring of diplomas.

Locally, a graduation celebration on Tuesday, May 26 honored these graduates:

Alisa Ainbinder, Ethan Cooperson, Jonathan Deitch, Deborah Kerbel, Faun Riebman, Eric Shore, Talia Vega and Natalie Woloshin. The Student Council's Annual "Farewell to Seniors" picnic was held on Thursday, May 21.

ALISA AINBINDER, daughter of Zarah and Harriet Ainbinder is a senior at Mount Pleasant High School and undecided about a college and major at this time. Her numerous extra-curricular activities at Mount Pleasant include marching band, concert band, choir, Yearbook

Alisa Ainbinder

Committee, American Field Service, the swim and track teams, and she is a student council representative. Alisa is a past participant in the Delaware State Piano Festival and the Delaware Flute Festival and is a member of the National Honor Society. She is a puppeteer at the Family Education Center during the summer and a member of the Harokdim Dance Group. She also enjoys ballet. Alisa videotaped several oral histories at the Kutz Home as a Gratz project.

ETHAN D. COOPERSON will attend Harvard University and plans to major in mathematics, statistics or english. He is a graduate of Wilmington Friends School where he was copy editor of the school newspaper. He also participated in concert band and was on the staff of the school's literary magazine. Ethan has played the oboe for eight years and enjoys all sports, particularly soccer. He is a recipient of a Letter of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Program. Ethan is the son of Jay and Georgia Cooperson.

JONATHAN DEITCH, son of Stephen and Jacqueline Deitch, is a graduate of Garnet Valley High School. At Garnet Valley, he was manager of the football and baseball teams, as well as statistician for the baseball and basketball teams. He also played keyboard in the jazz band, belonged to the French Club, the National Honor Society, Model United Nations and participated in Scott's Hi-Q, similar to the College Bowl. Jonathan has consistently received the Academic Excellence award during his high school years. He plans to attend the University of Pennsylvania.

Deborah Kerbel

DEBORAH KERBEL is a senior at Concord High School. She has been student director of all Concord's plays and musicals for the past three years. A former teacher's aide at Congregation Beth Shalom, Debbie was United Synagogue Youth vice-president during 1985-1986. She has volunteered for Super Sunday the last several years and is the regional chairperson of Central Region East B'nai Brith Youth Organization. Debbie attended the Alexander Muss High School in Israel and recently returned about eight weeks of intense study of Israeli history. She attended the BBYO summer programs, the 1986 Kallah, an intense Judaism program and the International Leadership Training Conference. Debbie, who is the daughter of Robert and Ruth Kerbel, hopes to attend a college on the east coast and hopes to pursue a profession as a rabbi, Hebrew studies teacher or social worker.

Faun Riebman

FAUN RIEBMAN, daughter of Ronald and Celina Riebman, is a graduate of Brandywine High School. At Brandywine, where she was an honor student, Faun was editor of the yearbook her senior year and faculty editor her junior year. She was vice-president of the Ski Club, a member of the volleyball team and a member of the marching and symphonic bands. She was also named to the Delaware All-State Band and attended Senator Roth's Youth Leadership Conference. Faun is also very active in B'nai Brith Girls, currently serving as its president. She plans to attend the University of Connecticut, majoring in psychology with a view to a career in industrial psychology. Faun served as co-president of Gratz Student Council this year.

ERIC SHORE is a graduate of Marple Newtown High School. He is the son of Michael and Bernice Shore. At Marple Newtown, he was a member of Interact Club, a community service organization, and the student council. He participated in the University of Pennsylvania's pre-college program by taking a course in economics. Eric is active in BBYO and is United Synagogue Youth chapter president. He is a substitute Hebrew school teacher and also acts as a waiter at synagogue functions. Eric is a member of the Abraham Joshua Heschel Honor Society. He also has received the Mid-Atlantic Region Men's Club Award. Eric will attend Emory University as a business major.

TALIA VEGA is a Senior at Mount Pleasant High School and is undecided at this time, about a college and major. She is very active at Mount Pleasant, participating in the American Field Service, the yearbook, the math team and junior achievement. She also serves as manager of the swim team. Talia is a member of the Harokdim Dance Group. She is the daughter of Alexander and Antoinette Vega.

Talia Vega

Natalie Woloshin

NATALIE WOLOSHIN, daughter of Melvyn and Roberta Woloshin is a graduate of Brandywine High School. She served the past year as co-president of the Gratz Student Council as well as secretary of the central east region of BBYO. At Brandywine, Natalie was a member of the ski club, choir, field hockey team, and the model United Nations. She was selected as a delegate for the model United Nations, selected to attend Close-Up and admitted to the advanced studies program at the University of Delaware. She also took part in the Scholastic Bowl. Natalie will attend Boston University in the fall.

 millions" of lost lives in the future, and "changing the course of history to the disadvantage of our country." He blamed the Rosenbergs for "putting into the hands of the Soviets the A-bomb," after presiding at the 3-week trial where not one witness testified that the Rosenbergs ever transmitted any classified information to anyone!

Dershowitz must understand, better than most people, that where there is inadequate evidence to support a verdict of guilt, the prosecution compensates by reliance upon an abundance of rhetoric, exaggeration of the alleged crime, and other questionable means and improprieties. Such flagrant prosecution violations should preclude intelligent inference of "probable" guilt. Alert Jews should recognize the syndrome, especially in this case, where the FBI attempts to transfer Rosenbergs alleged guilt to the shoulders of many of their Jewish friends and colleagues. The FBI claims that they "know" these friends are guilty; all they lack is the proof!

People In The News

U Of D Honors Alan Shepard

Alan Shepard

Alan Shepard, son of Marcia and Marvin Shepard of Wilmington, is finishing his junior year at the London School of Economics. He will be presented with a plaque by the Department of Economics for special achievement at the University of Delaware's honors day.

He is a founding member of Kappa Delta Rho at the University of Delaware, and belongs to Beta Gamma Sigma, the honor society of the College of Business and Economics and Omega Epsilon, the local chapter of Phi Alpha Theta which is the national honor society of the history department.

During his year in England he used his winter vacation to travel in Israel and Egypt. During spring break he travelled through Eastern Europe and Greece. In 1986 he spent his winter break as a volunteer in Israel, working at a paratrooper base in the Negev.

AEA Student Wins — Again

Pamela Weisberg, a third grade student at Albert Einstein Academy, won an honorable mention in the Eighth Annual Creative Projects Contest. The Association of Orthodox Jewish Teachers of Greater Philadelphia runs this contest each year as part of Jewish Heritage Week.

Pamela, who was also a winner last year, received her award at an awards ceremony at City Hall, Philadelphia in the Mayor's Reception Room.

Stanley B. Levy

Stanley Levy Invents New Polymer

Stanley Levy of Wilmington, a scientist in DuPont's Polymer Products Department, has invented a new Technology which allows to be used in angioplasty equipment to open coronary arteries that are much smaller and more obstructed than those that could previously be cleared. Dr. Andrew Dorrey, chief of angioplasty at the Medical Center of Delaware, expects new balloon catheters made with this substance to "revolutionize the field." The material is of the Dacron/Mylar family and a new form of the "plastic" used in big soda bottles, which is Polyethylene Terephthalate.

With the new DuPont material, catheters are smaller, so they can be worked into smaller arteries as well as the tiny opening that remains in a severely obstructed artery. They are stronger and yet more flexible so they can be manipulated, snaked into small winding arteries. When the balloon is inflated, the degree of expansion can be more accurately controlled and can exert more pressure on artery walls.

Evelyn Lobel

Elected Director

Evelyn Lobel of Wilmington was recently elected to the board of directors of the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council. She is the executive director of the Delaware Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews, and is a member of Pacem in Terris and Hadassah.

Trudy Halprin

Honored

Trudy Halprin of Newark was recently honored as social worker of the year by the Delaware chapter of the National Association of Social Workers. Halprin, president of the Delaware chapter, has been a counselor with Family Service of Delaware, Inc., since 1964.

Louis Zaret Honored By Nur Temple

Louis Zaret was honored recently by the Nur Temple Shriners for his three decades of dedicated work. He has been a member of Washington Lodge No. 1, A.F. & A.M. since 1953 and a member of the Nur Temple Shrine for over 30 years.

Lou was general chairman of Washington Lodge Ladies Night Dinner Dance in 1981, which was held at the Brandwine Sheraton Inn. In attendance, along with 380 other guests, were Senator Joseph Biden, Senator William Roth and Governor Pete DuPont.

Lou was chairman of the United Jewish appeal in Philadelphia for all the Bon-

She is also serving as the life membership chairperson for the Sisterhood of Congregation Bet Emeth. She serves on the Community Advisory Board of Hillel at the University of Delaware, of which she is former president.

She is a life member of the Auxiliary of the Kutz Home,

Barbara Levin Receives Award

Barbara Levin of Wilmington recently earned the 1986 National Quality Award. The award, which she received for the second time, is presented annually by the National Association of Life Underwriters for outstanding production during the preceding year. She is insurance representative in the Transamerica Life Companies' Delaware Valley branch office.

B'nai B'rith Women, Hadassah, National Council of Jewish Women and the Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Emeth.

Blumberg is listed in several editions of Who's Who.

Kevin Gross Honored By Delaware State Bar Association

The Delaware State Bar Association honored Kevin Gross in awarding him the New Lawyer Award at the annual meeting of the Bench and Bar on June 3, 1987. The honor is a signal achievement. The Bar makes the same criteria which it uses in awarding the Bar's First State Distinguished Service Award.

Jacob Wins Composition Contest

Andrew Jabobs, 11 year old son of The Honorable and Mrs. Jack B. Jacobs, won the Grand Prize at the Wilmington Music School's 11th annual composition contest with his "Suite" for flute, recorder, piano, and percussion. His "Concerto A Due" for two violins won first prize in the elementary division, and his "portrait of King Henry VIII" for trumpet and cello won the prize for most unusual instrumentation. Last October, Andrew won first place in the Delaware State Music Teachers Association composition contest in his division, with his "Twenty-third Psalm" for voice and piano.

Major Exhibition On Anne Frank

Anne Frank

A major exhibit created by the Anne Frank Foundation of the Netherlands can be seen at the Baltimore Jewish Community Center, 5700 Park Heights Avenue from June 7 through June 28.

The exhibit attempts to provide a personal history of the young Dutch girl's life through 800 photographs, some previously unpublished, and other archival documents. It also seeks to present a historical portrait of events leading to the Nazi rise to power and life in Germany and occupied Holland.

Portraying the events in Germany 1929-1945 and dealing with the occupation, the exhibit focuses not on Holocaust and military events, but on the lives of people. It addresses the fact that once democracy is abolished, freedom, justice and ultimately life itself is lost.

Bus Chartered For Trip On June 28

A chartered bus for this family trip is being sponsored by the Halina Wind Preston Holocaust Education Committee and the Jewish Community Center.

The tour of the exhibit will begin at 11:45 with a half hour introductory film. Walking through the exhibit will take at least 1 hour.

After the exhibit the group will go to the Baltimore Inner Harbor for an afternoon of leisure, lunch and fun on your own.

The bus will leave the JCC at 10 a.m. and depart from the Inner Harbor at 6:30 p.m. The cost is $10 for members; $13 for non-members.

The deadline for registration and payment is Friday, June 19. To register call the JCC at 478-5660. If you have any questions or need further information, contact Shelly Gitomer at the JCC.

If your schedule does not permit joining the JCC trip on June 28 the exhibition hours are:

Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.; Sunday (6/14) 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday (6/21 & 6/28) 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Docent tours for individuals and families are scheduled for Sunday afternoons beginning June 14 at 1:30 p.m. and every Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Tours for groups of 10 or more may be arranged by calling (301) 542-4900, ext. 137.

'A People In Print'

"A People in Print: Jewish Journalism in America," a monumental exhibition celebrating the Jewish press and the contributions of Jewish journalists, editors and publishers toward shaping a strong American Jewish identity, opens on Monday, June 15 for a six month run at the National Museum of American Jewish History, Independence Mall East, Philadelphia.

Organized by the Museum, the exhibition salutes the Jewish Exponent on its centennial, by placing its history within the broad context of Jewish journalism from the colonial era to the present.

Told for the first time in a major exhibition, the history of the Jewish press in this country is an exciting saga of chutzpah and heroism, drama and derring-do, revealing the leaders and junctures that shaped our times and the daily events of ordinary lives.

Printer's blocks, Hebrew

type, mastheads, metal plates, news photographs, engravings and cartoons are featured in the exhibition. Newspapers from throughout the United States, printed in five languages and spanning three centuries are included. Paintings, portraits, panoramas, correspondence and a selection of artifacts relating to the stories in print are also on display.

Organized by Dr. Kenneth Libo, Museum Curator of Historical Exhibitions, the exhibition is the result of years of intensive research into the origins of the Jewish press, its evolution and growth, the rise of foreign language Jewish newspapers and Jewish contributions to American mainstream journalism.

As organs of information and instruction, Jewish newspapers have provided generations of readers with effective tools for cultivating within themselves a distinctly American Jewish worldview, according to Libo. The existence of a strong communications vehicle, both nationally and at the local level, has also served to interpret the Jewish community to the broader culture and provided a powerful articulation of Jewish concerns.

The exhibition has been endorsed by We The People 200 as an official program component of the celebration of the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

"A People in Print" will be on view to the public from June 15 through December 31, 1987. Museum hours are Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, 12 to 5 p.m. and during June, July and August, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Fridays. Admission is $1.75 for adults, $1.50 for students and senior adults, $1.25 for children. Group tours are available at special discounts by arrangement with the Education Department. For further information, call the Museum at (215) 923-3811.

Congressional Opposition Mounts To Missile Sale To Saudis

By JUDITH COLP
 WASHINGTON, -- The Reagan Administration's proposed sale of 1,600 Maverick air-to-ground missiles to Saudi Arabia is facing staunch opposition in the Congress, suggesting possible overturn of a Presidential veto.

A Senate resolution opposing the sale, sponsored by Sens. Bob Packwood (R. Ore.) and Alan Cranston (D. Calif.), was signed by 52 Senators as of Thursday, just 15 cosigners short of a two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. The House resolution was signed by 108 Representatives.

Congress, which was notified of the sale May 29, has until June 26 to disapprove of the sale.

Opposition to the sale comes in the aftermath of the failure of Saudi Arabian, F-15s to force down the Iraqi jets that attacked the U.S. missile frigate Stark in the Persian Gulf. Congressmen have also cited concern over Saudi refusal to make a peace initiative towards Israel and its support of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

"I think there's a pretty widespread belief that it's the wrong thing at the wrong time," said Rep. Larry Smith (D. Fla.), who sponsored the House resolution with Rep. Mel Levine (D. Calif.). "There's a feeling of dissatisfaction with the Saudi noninvolvement and non-help in the process in the Middle East," he said.

The Reagan Administration is contending that the Maverick sale was approved by Congress in 1984, but delivery was delayed at the Saudis' request. The Administration is using the previous vote to deny Congress a 20-day advance notification of the sale before the 30-day disapproval period.

The American Israel Public Affairs Committee noted that

Saudi Arabia already has 2,582 Maverick missiles in stock compared to 900 earlier models in the Israel inventory.

We need your help! Votes in both houses must take place by June 29. Your assistance is crucial.

Please call your senators and representative and urge them to co-sponsor the resolution of disapproval against the Saudi arms sale (H.J.R. 302; S.J.R. 153).

State Representative Tom Carper 573-6181

U.S. Senator Jos. Biden 573-6345

U.S. Zionist Election Underway

Close to a million ballots were mailed to members of American Zionist organizations to elect delegates to the 31st World Zionist Congress which will open in Jerusalem on December 7, 1987. Eligible voters will choose from nine slates representing a broad spectrum of views on issues of concern to the Jewish people.

According to Benjamin Cohen, President of the American Zionist Federation and Raymond M. Patt, the Chairman of the Area Election Committee, recipients of the ballots will have until June 30th to return their ballots. While the AZF is the coordinating body for the election, voters will mail their preferences directly to the American Arbitration Association which is overseeing the election.

Mr. Patt called the balloting "a remarkable democratic exercise which allows members in U.S. Zionist organizations to select their representatives to the World Zionist Congress." He predicted that the response would exceed the more than 200,000 ballots cast in 1978. Patt added: "This is certainly the 'Year of the Zionist'. We witnessed a dramatic increase in Zionist membership; we experienced a highly successful American Zionist Assembly which was widely covered in the Jewish and general media. And we are extremely encouraged by a renewed interest in Zionism, particularly by young Jews."

Ben Cohen said that "a strong showing in this election will serve as a reaffirmation of basic Zionist principles and also reinforce the Jerusalem Program adopted at the 27th Zionist Congress in 1968." The Jerusalem Program includes such principles as the unity of the Jewish people and the centrality of Israel in Jewish life; the ingathering of the Jewish people in its historic homeland Eretz Israel through Aliyah from all countries; the strengthening of the State of Israel which is based on the prophetic vision of justice and peace, the preservation of the identity of the Jewish people through the fostering of Jewish and Hebrew education and of Jewish spiritual and cultural values; the protection of Jewish rights everywhere.

The nine slates are: 1) MERCAZ - Strengthening Israel's conservative/Masorati Judaism; 2) Hadassah - B'nai Zion - American Jewish League; 3) Zionist Organization of America - ZOA; 4) Independent students for Israel; 5) ARZA - Association of Reform Zionists of America; 6) Herut Zionists - Techiya - Sephardic Movement Coalition; 7) The Progressive Zionist List; 8) Religious Zionist Movement; 9) Friends of Labor: Na'Amat, LZA, Habonim

Although all of the organizations are united on the basic Zionist agenda, such (Continued to page 13)

AEA Honors Rabbi Kraft

Rabbi Jacob Kraft, rabbi emeritus of Congregation Beth Shalom, was honored by the Albert Einstein Academy. Many of Rabbi Kraft's long time friends, admirers, supporters, and family members came to say thank you to a man who has spent much of his life working for the Jewish community of Delaware.

Dr. Robert Rosen, President of the Board of Directors of AEA, began the program by stating how proud we can all be of AEA's growth and progress in its seventeen year history. Through the encouragement and dedication of people like Rabbi Kraft, AEA has developed into a "school where children learn about their Jewish heritage and learn to love being Jewish."

Dr. Nisson Finkelstein, a former president of the Jewish Federation of Delaware and AEA, and a long time friend of Rabbi Kraft, spoke about the honoree. "For what is most remarkable about our honoree is the great and lasting impact he has had on the hundreds, the thousands, of men and women whose lives he has touched and changed and shaped. It is through their words, not the degrees and honors, that we may begin to know this man, who is the personification of menschlichkeit," stated Finkelstein. He then shared some reflections about Rabbi Kraft that he received from other individuals. "He has given us much more than stability — he has provided leadership, courage, understanding, and love," said a congregant. A former student said "how great an influence his spiritual values had upon us, how we grew with these values and under his influence became responsible leaders in the Jewish community." "Happy is the generation, happy is the synagogue that has been fortunate to have him as a rabbi and teacher," said a fellow Rabbi. Finkelstein concluded his remarks with a short prayer in which he asked for (Continued to page 19)

Jewish Federation Of Delaware Holds 53rd Annual Meeting

Shoshana Cardin, president of the Council of Jewish Federations, was keynote speaker at the 53rd annual meeting of the Jewish Federation of Delaware, held May 14 at the Jewish Community Center. Also featured were special recognitions and brief reports from Martin G. Mand, outgoing Federation president, Robert N. Kerbel, JFD executive vice president, Pat Chalphin, nominating committee chairperson and Stephen E.

manager and administrator of the Harry Cohen Foundation established by her father, also received special recognition at the annual meeting.

Every year, for nearly three decades, the Milton and Hattie Kutz Home, Jewish Community Center, Jewish Federation of Delaware, Beth Emeth Congregation and Adas Kodesch Shel Emeth Congregation have received funds from this foundation. More than $1,157,000 has been distributed from the Harry expected to be signed shortly.

In connection with this effort, the Federation was able to place a $2.9MM tax exempt Delaware State Bond, through Wilmington Trust Company to also help finance this new facility.

Employment of a Jewish Youth Coordinator, establishment of a Jewish studies program at University of Delaware, a Community Awareness Institute and a Symposium on the Aging were among other new programs initiatives.

Campaign

Mr. Mand stated that an early decision was made to attempt to sponsor as many community campaign events with spouses as we could. We've held events at Buena Vista, the State's restored Governor's Mansion, the Brandywine River Museum, the Delaware Theatre Company, and the Museum of Natural History. These efforts were spearheaded by Steve Herrmann in 1986 and Bill Topkis this year as our Campaign Chairmen.

In addition, missions to Israel were emphasized under Richard Levine's leadership. Just two months ago, 26 Delawareans went on a UJA mission. This was the second largest contingent from any community in our country. There already are two Delaware families who will be participating in family missions this summer.

The campaign did not make the quantum leaps in giving which Mr. Mand had envisioned. But last year, the

N. Norman Schutzman, recipient of the Endowment Achievement Award of the CJF; Martin Mand.

Community Events

One of the Federation's goals has been to try to bring our Jewish community together — to develop a sense of oneness — through cultural events in which we all can participate. We have had several small events, such as the celebration of Israel's 39th birthday at the beginning of May.

Major events have included sponsorship of a "Fiddler on the Roof" concert performed by the Delaware Symphony. Elie Wiesel will speak to the community at the Grand Opera House this coming September 20. We have contracted to have the Jerusalem Symphony play at the Grand Opera House next May in connection with Israel's 40th birthday. We need to continue to pull together as one Delaware Jewish community, and cultural events, such as those

He spoke of the need to continue improving relations with Newark and Lower Delaware and to develop an even more cooperative relationship with all our agencies and organization.

Economy Shop

Mr. Mand stated that the Economy Shop was closed because it was no longer generating the funds that made the effort worthwhile. An alternative way for our community to make gifts of property and clothing needs to be developed.

Administration

Mr. Mand stated that the office professional staff was restructured by going to essentially part-time people from our community, rather than bringing in full time staff from outside the state. This experiment has worked extremely well, because of three very talented and dedicated part-timers who have an in-depth knowledge of our community — Connie Kreshtool, Marilyn Levin, and Harriet Wolfson. Last, but not least, we have operated within a very tight budget for the past two years.

All of the foregoing would not have been possible without the hard work and efforts of so many people, both professional and lay. This Federation does not function because of one person or a handful of people. It is truly a Federation of volunteers supported by a very able professional staff. Rather than risk forgetting someone, Mr. Mand offered sincere thanks to everyone. To the officers and members of the Executive Committee, to the chairpersons and members of the many committees and task forces, to our Board of Directors, to a group of past leaders who served on a Presidential Advisory Committee appointed to offer their best counsel during the past two years, to the presidents of our constituent agencies and their boards, to

Rabbi Kenneth Cohen of Congregation Beth Shalom enjoined the gathering to come together, g'dolim and k'tonim, great and small, "for the betterment of our community, for Israel and for all mankind."

Recognitions

N. Norman Schutzman was presented with the Endowment Achievement Award of the Council of Jewish Federations in recognition of his creative and outstanding leadership of the Endowment Program of the Jewish Federation of Delaware.

More than a decade ago, Mr. Schutzman began expressing his grave concern that the Federation had little resources for meeting emergency needs and providing funds for future needs. He was convinced that there were men and women in our community who would welcome a way to endow their special charitable interests for future generations. His active pursuit of this idea led to the establishment of the Jewish Community of Delaware Endowment Fund by the Jewish Federation.

"Sonny worked very hard to see his vision transformed into a reality and has worked even harder as chairman of the Endowment Fund board of trustees to increase the fund's assets," noted Mand upon presentation of the award.

Cohen Foundation to the institutions in our Jewish community, yet his daughter has not sought glory or recognition for herself.

"She has spent a tremendous amount of time administering her father's estate with the sole purpose of ensuring that the beneficiary institutions receive the maximum amount of funds possible," said Mand.

Highlights of Federation Annual Meeting

Martin G. Mand, in his review of the last two years of the Federation's activities discussed the accomplishment, initiatives and opportunities for the future.

Jewish Family Campus

New programs and initiatives include the development and financing of our new Jewish Family Campus. Although the community has not yet reached the campaign goal of $2.5MM, through the leadership efforts of Irv and Doris Morris, it has raised in excess of $2.3MM and are hopeful that it can raise the remaining funds needed in the near future.

The site development committee, under the leadership of Martin I. Lubaroff, had developed an exciting layout for our new family campus which, not only includes athletic fields and olympic aquatic facilities, but also an amphitheatre, picnic areas, and the like. Bids have been received from the general contractors, are now being evaluated, and a contract is most money was raised since the Yom Kippur War, which was an increase of 5% over the prior year, and were able to restore the cut from our previous allocation to Israel. This year on a card-for-card basis, to-date, the campaign is running 10% ahead. It's hard to assess what impact our $2.5MM family campus campaign had on our 1986 and 1987 annual campaigns, but the message is clear that we still must do a better job.

mentioned, are but one way to do this.

Other accomplishments Mr. Mand discussed were the Federation's updated by-laws, participation of new active personnel, the establishment of property and maintenance and communications and media committees.

He lauded the progress made with the Jewish Voice, Endowment Fund, JCRC and Leadership Development.

Stephen E. Herrmann Elected President Of JFD

Stephen E. Herrmann, Esq. was elected President of the Jewish Federation at the agency's Annual Meeting on May 14th. Mr. Herrmann was a Vice President and 1986 Campaign Chairman of the Federation. Mr. Herrmann is the first president of the Federation whose father, Chief Justice Daniel Herrmann also held that office. Herrmann is a partner in the law firm of Richards, Layton & Finger. He received his undergraduate education at Princeton University and his law degree at the University of Virginia. He is married to Susan Agoos Herrmann. The Herrmanns have two sons, Adam and Douglas.

In his acceptance speech Mr. Herrmann stated, "Over the past two years, there has been a change, a metamorphosis, in the role of the Federation, in the Jewish communal life here in Delaware. From a role which was perceived just a few years ago as only the collector and distributor of monies, the Federation of Delaware has sought, and has undertaken the role as the community's central address, its coordinator of programs and activities, its spokesperson and its forum for active participation by more and more members of the community."

"There is no doubt in my mind that the catalyst for this fundamental role change was and is Marty Mand. Marty, through his obvious competence, dogged determination, good humor, tireless efforts and what can only be described as style, has had a meaningful impact on the Jewish Federation, the Jewish community, and on those of us who have worked with him."

"When working with Marty, the concept of "building bridges" quickly becomes part of the vocabulary. These are not one-way bridges, they carry heavy two-way traffic. The bridges which Marty has fostered recognize that where the Federation retains the option of calling upon, it must be available to be called upon. If the Federation would speak and be understood by the community, it must be prepared to both listen and understand what is being said by the community."

"This is an exciting time in the Jewish community in Delaware. The Federation has new purpose and a central role, there is a family campus which will be completed next year, we have more and more of our people finding a commitment to Israel by going on missions to Israel, there are active efforts to create the type of interaction between Jewish youth which many of us experienced when we were young. And we are working towards attaining a level of giving both in the annual campaign and in the endowment fund which is credible."

"In carrying forth these projects, to continue the bridge building analogy, the bridges which Marty helped to build must be constantly maintained and sometimes repaired. Of course more and new bridges must be attempted. This is the sort of challenge which will make the next few years not only exciting, but very interesting."

"Because of the program which we have this evening, I from more and more members of the community. They are also going to be accomplished, and only can be accomplished, by a partnership with the lay leadership and the professional staff of the Federation office. When I was approached as to whether I would take on the responsibility of the presidency, even before I discussed whether I would accept with Susan, I called Bob Kerbel. It was perfectly clear to me that unless Bob Kerbel were will-

am not going to take time to tell you all the things which will be attempted in the next two years. But let me tell you an important part of how they are going to be accomplished by the continued support, input and active participation

ing to commit to providing the same wonderful level of support that he has in the last few years, that it was just not possible that I would want to undertake this job. Bob and I have had a very fine working (Continued to page 12) relationship. He has a talent of having me leave meetings not sure whether I talked Bob into something or if he convinced me. To Bob's great credit, he has developed a professional staff at the Federation which is truly unique in the depth of creativity and energy which it generates."

"Finally this evening, I know that some of you here and many other members of the Delaware Jewish community see me not as Stephen Herrmann but as Dan and Zelda's son. That is as it should be. It is because of them as a source of commitment that I am here this evening. I believe that it is to the community's benefit and credit that successive generations of Delawareans are interested and willing to actively participate in this community."

"Marty Mand has already received well-deserved praise here this evening. It is said that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. And I for one believe that it is true. Therefore, let me add that by our attempt to imitate Marty's leadership and commitment that the praise of Marty that has been heard this evening will continue well into the future."

Cooking In Delaware

By SYLVIA F. PANITZ

By this time the graduates of the class of 1987 have received their diplomas and hopefully are on their way to good fortune and much happiness.

The high school I attended was traditional red brick building with lofty towers. The classrooms had many windows — it was before air-conditioning. The P.S. Du Pont school reminds me a lot of my former high school; a school of many traditions. There was a junior prom and senior inaugural assembly dance. We planted a tree on the campus. There was a farewell assembly; next came the senior prom and finally the graduation. It was a school in which at least 85% of the student population was Jewish.

The only thing special about my class that I can remember is that shortly before graduation a rumor went about that one of the cutest, nicest and smartest girls in the class was dating the class advisor, an English teacher in his 30's. The rumor turned out to be true and shortly after graduation the two were married and he returned to teach at the school. They were happily married for many years until he passed away a few years ago.

About five years ago a notice went out that my school, Forest Park High was going to be torn down and replaced by a new school. My husband and I plus our kids drove down to Baltimore for the open house. I thought my kids would enjoy seeing where I went to high school. They were not too impressed but I enjoyed wandering through the halls. Someday I will go see the new school that was built - but it just won't be the same!

Fudge Cake

This is a cake for the Dads who have to watch their cholesterol.

2 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1 stick corn or safflower oil margarine, unsalted
 1 3/4 cups sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 3 egg whites
 1 cup sour milk
 1/2 cup hot water
 1/2 cup Hershey's cocoa confectioners' sugar

Sift together the flour, baking soda, and baking powder; set aside. Beat margarine, then add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla, then add egg whites. Beat mixture until light and fluffy. Beat in flour mixture alternately with sour milk. Mix cocoa and hot water to form a smooth paste; beat into batter. Pour batter into 9x13 inch baking pan lined with waxed paper. Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool in pan; dust with confectioners' sugar. Yield 24 2 inch squares.

To make sour milk pour 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar into measuring cup and add skim milk to make 1 cup.

Emanuel Barros

Emanuel Barros, founder and owner of Emanuel's Department store in Dover, died Saturday, May 16 at home. He was 84.

Mr. Barros, of 15 Kings Highway, retired about 1980. He moved to Dover from Philadelphia in 1917. He opened his first department store in Milford in 1925, and in 1929 he established the Ladies' Shop in Dover. Later that year, he opened Emanuel's Department store on Loockerman Street, where he conducted business for 49 years.

Dover Mayor Crawford J. Carroll said: "Mr. Barros... was a good businessman, was active in city organizations and contributed to the development of the city. Mr. Barros' death was a personal loss. He was well-known and well-liked."

He was a member of the board of directors of Wesley College.

He was a former chairman of the Dover Parking Authority, a past chairman of the Red Cross and the American Cancer Association Drive.

He was a 54-year member, a former president and a Paul Harris Fellow of the Dover Rotary Club. He was a member of Grand Lodge Nur Temple, 32nd Degree Shriner.

He was the first president of Congregation Beth Shalom, a member of the Senior Citizen Task Force of the Jewish Federation of Delaware and a former director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

In 1985 he received a merit award from Friends of Old Dover for service to the community.

He appeared several times as Grandpapa in the Nutcracker Suite with the Delaware Regional Ballet.

He is survived by his wife of 57 years, Ethel Shuman Barros; two sons, Maurice and A. Richard, both of Dover, a daughter, Joyce Roth of Larchmont, N.Y.; three sisters, Mae Simon of Dover, Sarah Cohen of Seattle and Elizabeth Harrison of Philadelphia; and eight grandchildren.

They are survived by a daughter, Gladys Rosenfeld of Brooklyn, N.Y., two sons, Benjamin of Cherry Hill, N.J., and Gary of Staten Island, N.Y.; and four grandchildren.

Mrs. Gross is survived by three sisters, Fay Rosenblatt of New York, Sheila Kreisberg of Plainview, N.Y., and Rose Rosen of Brooklyn; Mr. Gross is survived by a half sister, Miriam Jaffe of Israel.

Services were held in Brooklyn.

In memoriam the family suggests contributions to the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association.

Norma Lessin

Norma Lessin, 68, of 931 Parkside Blvd., Northridge, died Wednesday, May 20 in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Lessin was a retail sales manager in women's apparel at Maternity Mart in Concord Mall when she retired in 1983. Before that she worked at Arthur's Apparel, Braunstein's, Franklin-Simon an Oppenheim-Collins' women's apparel store.

She was a member of Congregation Beth Shalom, and treasurer of Machzikey Hadas Congregation. She was a member of Deborah and Hadassah and a volunteer at Kutz Home.

Her husband, David, died in 1984. Surviving are a son, Marvin S. of Northridge; three daughters, Suzanne Nathanson of Greenmount, Judith S. McClafferty of Sunset Farms and Sandra L. Anderson of Holly Oak; a brother, Adrian N. Loeb of Woodrock; and eight grandchildren.

— "Stacey," age 38, when teased by her friends about her newly purchased cemetery plot.

Stacey looks forward to years and years of good health. But she knows that by planning ahead she will spare her friends and family some difficult decisions at a most difficult time. She also liked the fact that by purchasing property now, she could select a choice location in the Delaware Valley's most beautiful memorial park.

And Stacey's practical side appreciated the savings her estate would enjoy by purchasing a plot at today's prices—rather than burdening her heirs with an extra expense.

Stacey has always been glad to take responsibility for all aspects of her life. If you would like information on this delicate issue, call the Haym Salomon Memorial Park, at 215-644-1100. Or write for our free brochure.

Establishing Funeral Costs

By ALAN SCHOENBERG

Under current Federal Trade Commission rules a Funeral Director must offer to provide a general price list for available services. This price list will contain costs for professional services, embalming, facilities, equipment, and merchandise generally available. For items such as caskets and burial vaults, for which a variety are available, the general price list will give the range of prices. Prices for the individual items should be available at the funeral home or separately from the funeral director.

The professional service fee is the minimum fee necessary to cover the operational costs of staff services. This includes all consultation with the family, coordination with the Rabbi, cemetery, newspapers, hospitals, doctors, and anyone else. It also includes directing the actual funeral and post funeral administration.

New Torah Cover In Memory Of The Late Harry Shor

On Sunday, May 17, a new Torah cover and other synagogue garments were installed in the synagogue of The Milton & Hattie Kutz Home at 704 River Road. Present for the installation were the children of the late Harry Shor, who had been a resident of the Kutz Home from June of 1984 until his death on Dec. 31, 1986. The new Torah cover was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Shor, who had been a leading member of the Home's resident congregation, according to Daniel Thurman, executive director of the Home.

Pictured at the installation of new synagogue garments and the dedication of a new Torah cover to the memory of Harry Shor were the following (L-R): Naomi H.A. Goldstein, O.T.R., who designed and made the items; A. Louis Shor, D.V.M., and Kenie Zutkoff, son and daughter of the late Harry Shor in whose memory a Torah cover was dedicated; and Daniel G. Thurman, executive director of the Kutz Home.

The Torah cover and other items were designed and made by the Home's consultant occupational therapist, (Continued to page 17)

Embalming, under federal rules, must be a separate item. If embalming is performed, the reason for it must be stated on a statement of charges form.

The statement of charges form is a document for providing funeral related charges at the time arrangements are made. This document itemizes all funeral charges. It will generally have two major sections; one for funeral home charges for services, facilities, equipment, and merchandise. The other section is for cash advances or cash outlay. This is moneys paid to others by the funeral home as a convenience to the family. Cemetery costs for interment, copies of death certificates, airfare, overtime charges by cemetery, newspaper notices, Chevra Kadisha, etc. When a specific charge is not known in advance a note to this effect may be made or an approximate amount might be entered.

Under Delaware law payment arrangements should be stated on the statement of charges form, this is usually a payment or payments due date. The signature of the funeral director and family representative with date of arrangements are to be entered on the form as proof that the arrangements and costs were authorized and accepted.

Facilities and equipment may include: vehicles, operating room, refrigeration, and use of chapel. An additional charge is usually made for use of hearse, limousine, or first call vehicle outside the local operational area. The local operational area may be specified in mileage such as a 20 mile radius from the funeral home. In the case of the Schoenberg Memorial Chapel, for vehicular computation with full funeral arrangements we consider The State of Delaware and greater Philadelphia within our local operational area.

If you have any question relating to this subject please submit them to Alan Schoenberg Memorial Chapel, 519 Philadelphia Pike, Wilmington, Delaware 19809.

Patterson-Schwartz has some good news. And some good news.

Besides all the other great reasons to buy or sell a home through Patterson-Schwartz, now we have two more.

The Good News: A Home-Warranty Plan. Patterson-Schwartz now offers a new—and definitely improved—optional home-warranty plan that protects you against any unexpected costs of repair or replacement of a home's major working components.

ONE YEAR WARRANTY

If you're selling, this new plan can help your home sell faster—and for more.

If you're buying, this plan can cover the home for a full year after the closing. Call us anytime for costs and details.

The Other Good News: An Equity-Loan Plan. For people who want to buy a new home before they sell their present one, but don't have the extra cash—who does?—we can arrange a convenient equity loan.

This new plan lets you borrow up to 75% of the market value of your present home, less any mortgage or liens, at the prime rate plus 1/2 of 1%—and defer the interest payments for up to 90 days. A very good deal, when you think about it, and one that takes the anxiety out of trying to sell and buy at exactly the same time.

For the full story on how either of these new plans can work for you, call Patterson-Schwartz today.

And tell them you want the good news.

TEENS OF DELAWARE TO PERFORM

The Jewish Community Center proudly presents the Teens of Delaware in "Bye Bye Birdie". The production will be held at the Jewish Community Center on June 20 at 8:45 p.m. and June 21 at 2:00 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at the Jewish Community Center or from a cast member. Adults - $ 5.00 and Students - $ 2.50.

"Bye Bye Birdie" is a captivating show that tells the story of a rock and roll singer who is about to be inducted into the army. Conrad Birdie, an Elvis Presley clone, is the rock and roll singer and Albert Peterson is his mild mannered agent. It is Albert's faithful secretary Rose Alvarez that keeps him and Birdie moving. Rosie concocts one final national publicity stunt before Conrad's induction. He will bid a typical American teen-age girl one last kiss. The cast includes Steve Milbauer as Albert Peterson and Wendy Weiss as Rose Alvarez. The MacAfee family is as follows: Ari Greenberg as Mr. MacAfee, Valerie Strilko as Mrs. MacAfee, Tami Legutko as Kim MacAfee and Jon Gleich as Randolph MacAfee. Conrad Birdie is played by Christopher Woener and Hugo is played by Adam Bowman. Nicole Tenenbaum plays Mrs. Peterson and Erica Spiller plays Ursula Merkle.

Other cast members include: Judi Campbell, Cicely Charamella, Kristen Edmonton, Rachel Greenberg, Marisa Gunzenhouser, Ilana Harad, Raegan Kendzierski, Erica Levy, Natalie Levy, Jennifer Lowthert, Michael Peffley, Richard Polish, Alysén Revirt, Bruce Seltzer and Jennifer Timm.

This production is being produced by Shelley Gitomer, Teen Program Coordinator. The show is under the Direction of Fred Munzert, Teen Worker with Debbie Kerbel as the Assistant Director. Ruth Ann Kauffman is Manager of costumes, props and make-up. Other staff for the show are: Rachel Deitch, Musical Director; Steve Harwitz, Conductor; Erik Paul, Stage Manager; Brandon Gentry, Assistant Stage Manager; Natalie Levy, Co-Choreographer; Todd Barasch and Beth Lubaroff on sets. The band includes Daniel Bither, John Davis, Brian Dombchik, Jeffrey Dombchik, Susan Ferentinos, Steve Higley, Christopher Kirk, Sarah McNeilly, Samer Meshreki, Amy Peltz, Joseph Testa and Laura Witonsky.

Remarriage

By Arnold Lieberman,
Executive Director

An offshot of the high divorce rate that is sometimes overlooked is the phenomenon of remarriage. Since 80 percent of divorced men and 70 percent of divorced women remarry within five years of divorce, remarriages are increasing almost as quickly as divorces. With 60 percent of second marriages also ending in divorce, third, fourth, and even fifth marriages are becoming increasingly common.

A remarriage may occur between people who already have children from their previous marriage and result in what are known as "step-families." A couple with children from a previous marriage, who also have children in the current marriage, wind up as a "blended family."

Regardless of the circumstances and whether there are children or not, remarriages will usually be more complex since they may be "carrying the baggage from the first marriage." Anyone who has been married previously has been affected by the initial marital experience and it can create a problem in the current relationship.

Popular magazines are loaded with such things as the "Do's and Don'ts of a Second Marriage," "Remarried Etiquette," "How to Have a Happy Blended Family," and "Rules for Stepfamilies." However, generalities often do not fit a particular situation and may cause more harm than good.

It is really necessary to look at the specific family and its own constellation of relationships if one is to work out problems and improve the lives of all the family members. I was recently asked by a parent, "How does one deal with a twelve-year-old boy who constantly compares his mother and his stepmother?" This behavior was obviously creating a problem in this particular family. Since the behavior in itself may be quite normal, I couldn't begin to offer a suggestion without knowing more about the boy as well as the other family members.

We have become a society that seeks quick and specific answers to our problems, and in many cases it cannot be done. Just as a physician dealing with a physical problem must often examine and diagnose beyond the specific symptom, the same is required in dealing with psychological or social problems.

We would not attempt to counsel someone without first becoming familiar with the total context in which the problem is occurring. Then and only then can we guide someone toward a solution.

We are well equipped to help with any form of remarriage by offering competent professional counseling. Call us at 478-9411.

Dear Rachel

Dear Rachel,

Today, death acquired a name and a face. I heard at a wedding that my high school English teacher has AIDS.

Dr. G. A two dimensional figure. Neither young nor old. Competent. I hadn't thought about it before. He introduced me to Charles Dickens, who never used one word where he could use ten. I don't know what "Great Expectations" Dr. G. had. I only know that they won't be realized.

I try to connect with a man I barely know. A man I'll never know. His life is so tangential to mine. His death seems more real. I'm young. I'm single, I'm scared. And I want to realize my "Great Expectations"

To all my friends, to all the people whose lives barely touch mine, I give you the advice of Sargeant Phil Estenhouse of TV's Hill Street Blues, "Let's be careful out there."

Hoping to Live and Die a Natural Death
Dear Live,

Death is not preventable but the disease called AIDS is. Each and every one of us owes it to ourselves to understand the disease. We owe it to ourselves to do or not do the things that we know will prevent exposure to the virus. For a quick, anonymous overview of AIDS, call TEL-MED

(571-1010) and ask for tape #571. Or use the free AIDS Hotline at 1-800-342-2437.

As you see, AIDS is a disease with an enormous impact on how people live. Therefore, Jewish Family Service offers discussion groups and individual counseling for anyone concerned about AIDS or any aspect of human sexuality. Call us at 478-9411.

Rachel
Send letters to "Rachel, c/o Jewish Family Service, 101 Garden of Eden Rd., Wilmington, DE 19803." Names and details will be altered in published letters to protect your privacy.

continued blessings for Rabbi and Mrs. Kraft.

Mrs. Roselee Redelheim, principal of AEA, presented Rabbi Kraft with a framed limited edition lithograph by Rosenstein. The work, depicting the line from the Shema "...and you shall teach unto your children..." was a fitting gift for Rabbi Kraft, who, in the words of a fellow rabbi, "...is a consummate teacher, who has always set first on his rabbinical list of priorities, Jewish education for young and old alike."

The Albert Einstein Academy is grateful to have had the opportunity to honor a person that has given so much to the community as Rabbi Kraft. Contributions presented to the school in honor of Rabbi Kraft will be allocated to the continuance of quality education at AEA. The Albert Einstein Academy, Delaware's only community Hebrew day school, and an agency of the JFD, is dedicated to providing an excellent secular as well as Judaic-Hebrew curriculum from kindergarten through the elementary grades. Staffed with state certified teachers dedicated to meeting the needs of every child, the school offers a wide variety of subjects. In the general studies department this includes mathematics, science, reading, language arts, social studies, and physical education. The Hebrew department teaches a love of Judaism through the study of the Hebrew language, Bible, customs, and tradition. Art, music, and drama are integrated throughout. The children of AEA come from a wide variety of backgrounds representing differing degrees of religious observance and involvement.

Unfinished Agenda

“There is, however, an unfinished agenda, for successor administrations to deal with,” Mr. Mand stated. The Federation needs to raise more money, there’s no doubt about it. Other ways must be tried to accomplish this objective.”

“We need a community Hebrew School where our youth can mingle together in an educational and social environment, where the strains on synagogue budgets can be relieved, and where we can put together our best teachers in one school to enhance the quality of learning.”

Summation

Mr. Mand summed up the last two years by characterizing them as a period of change of leadership, more than the way we do things, although many changes in our modus operandi have been made. He expressed gratification about the many younger people who have become involved whose leadership capabilities will enable them to lead our community in the future. “I also feel good about the many people of all ages in our community who have helped me and this administration in more ways than can be mentioned,” he stated. “I leave with the feeling that we have many accomplishments, but there is still more to be accomplished in the future.”

In summing up Mr. Mand wished Steve Herrmann and his administration all the success it deserves and expressed confidence the Federation will continue to grow in strength as a result of their leadership.

On a personal basis, Mr. Mand thanked the community for this opportunity to serve as their leader. “As many of you heard me say two years ago, I did not seek this position, nor aspire to it, but I accepted it when offered, and I am very glad I did. It has given me a real sense of personal satisfaction, has broadened my horizons in many respects, encouraged me to visit Israel for the first time on a Presidents mission with my wife, Shelly, and to attend CJF National meeting which are so inspirational to the Jewish leadership around the country, and permitted me to meet and get to know so many people in our Delaware community.”

His final comment was a tribute to his family — Shelly and his three sons, Greg, Mike and Brian. He thanked them for allowing him “to serve you to the best of my abilities.”

Shoshana S. Cardin the keynote speaker called for Jewish unity. She stated that with all our diversity we are “the Jewish People” and must together work for our vital future.
